UPDATE ON TAX REFUNDS

ATLANTA—The Department of Revenue announced today it has extended the deadline to March 15 for taxpayers to provide documentation with respect to any overdraft fees that may have been assessed by their financial institution when certain income tax refunds shown as credited to their account(s) were in fact not available.

A revised form for that purpose (reflecting the new deadline) and an accompanying letter have been mailed to all affected taxpayers. A copy of both documents is located on the Home Page of the DOR website: <https://etax.dor.ga.gov/pressrel/1-28-11ORFLetterandForm.pdf>

Taxpayers have an option to either mail in the completed form or e-mail it to the Department.

The Department began reissuing the income tax refunds to all affected taxpayers last week and expects to complete that process later this week. DOR is continuing to work with all financial institutions involved.
